DEKE LAPE OF D2E HEALTH PLANS TO SERVE AS FACULTY AT WORLD HEALTH CARE CONGRESS

Benefits Expert Tapped to Address Prestigious Health Care Conference

Sikeston, MO. (March 5, 2020) – Deke Lape, Consultant of Sikeston, Missouri-based employee benefits firm D2E Health Plans, has been selected to address the 17th Annual World Health Care Congress (WHCC) in Washington, D.C.

“Deke Lape is widely recognized as a national leader in innovative NextGen Benefits strategies that are revolutionizing employee benefits,” said Nelson Griswold, chairman of the WHCC Benefits Adviser Leadership Track. “We are privileged to have Deke sharing his experience and expertise at WHCC20,” said Griswold.

“It’s an honor to serve on the WHCC faculty,” said Lape. “I’m excited to speak to the esteemed attendees about our work with executives to take control of their company’s health care spend and manage both the quality and cost of health care for the company and its employees.”

DEKE LAPE

Deke Lape is an employee benefits consultant with D2E Health Plans with over 22 years of experience in employee benefits insurance and consulting. Deke has worked with employers spanning a wide range of industries on how to successfully navigate the health insurance world to best serve for your employees while driving down costs to employers.

“Deke’s innovative approach to lowering costs by managing the health care supply chain makes him a role model for benefits professionals across the country,” says Griswold. “At WHCC20, Deke joins a world-class lineup of leaders and experts in health care, public policy, and medicine.”
